Subject: We need written permission to continue sending you fax communications. Urgent response requested ASAP!

The recent FCC regulations that created the very popular national do-not-call list will also as of July 1, 2005, prohibit any company from sending any fax, containing an "unsolicited advertisement" to any person or business without their express written permission. This rule will apply even when the parties have an existing business relationship, such as exists between your company and ours.

Because of the FCC's very broad definition of "unsolicited advertisement", it is likely that we would not be able to exchange certain faxes that our company may use from time to time to interact with your company for regular business purposes.

Furthermore, we believe that faxing must remain a viable option for communication between our companies. So that we can continue exchanging such documents via fax, telephone, and/or email, we respectfully request that you sign this form. We very much appreciate your assistance in trying to make certain that our company is in compliance with these new regulations. We thank you for your understanding and we will make every effort to return a similar form to your company promptly should you determine that your business also requires this permission to remain in compliance.
